

HUGO AND PLATO

Theme: 5 little ducks

Week beginning 27th November 2023

CHRISTMAS

Christmas dates for your diary:

Wednesday 13th December 1.30pm in the hall we will be doing a short nativity style performance for Hugo and Plato - please do let the office know if you are able to make it or not.

Wednesday 20th December 1.30pm in the hub for a Christmas craft afternoon and a chance to connect with other parents. Again, please let the office know if you are able to make it or not.

NEXT WEEK

Our theme is wheels on the bus! Lots of our children love vehicles or wheels and movement so we are sure we will see lots of lovely learning this week.

Again do post any pictures you have on Tapestry of the children on any transport that we can show in class.

HUGO

This week, we continued with our theme of Old Macdonald and his farm and also introduced 5 Little Ducks. For literacy we have worked on mark making, by printing using different tools and techniques and also labelling photos for meaning, by matching objects, photos and symbols. In phonics we have revisited the letter 'a' and looked at words that begin with 'a' and listened to and identified environmental sounds - sounds on the farm. In maths we used the 5 little ducks rhyme to work on number recognition and counting. We have had lots of fun practicing our Christmas play this week and doing artwork for it. We also found time to explore floating and sinking this week, which the children loved.

PLATO

Plato have really enjoyed the activities this week a based on our new nursery rhyme.

The children in class have also been working on positional language (on, in, out) using animals. We have also been looking at 2D shapes, sorting and matching and using key vocabulary. The children have been looking at different animals and categorising them.

We've been having lots of practice for our nativity style performance too.
